

If the FCC refuses to recognize the dangers of media consolidation perhaps it is time to look at restructuring the FCC.

I can't think of a more blatant example of the dangers of media consolidation than Sinclair's disregard for responsibility in its airing of volitile anti-Kerry propaganda so close to elections.